The slowly descending sun lingered almost sadly over the darkening earth. Its last rays lovingly kissed the golden hair of a little girl, and touched caressingly the faded hair of the old man.

They made a pretty picture as they sat there together in the twilight. He held her in his arms, telling in a voice feeble with age her favorite fairy tales.

Suddenly the child sat upright.

"Oh, Grandfather," she cried, "I found the prettiest book in the attic today. Let's make up stories about it!"

"Surely, surely child," he replied, eager to grant her least wish.

She was back in a moment carrying a blue book somewhat old and dusty.

"Here 'tis," she shouted gaily.

With startled eyes the old man took it. His class book! Softly and tenderly he turned the pages. Old familiar faces—they looked smilingly up at him from every page. Tears started to his eyes, a lump to his throat. The child was forgotten, and grieved, she crept slowly out of the room, and left him alone with his dreams.

Dedication

TO OUR DEAR FRIEND AND TEACHER, MR. BRAMHALL, DO WE

TIVE AS IT IS OF OUR BEST ENDEAVOR,
WILL EXPRESS TO HIM A LITTLE OF OUR GRATITUDE

THOMAS LONG BRAMHALL

The class of 1925 is proud of the fact that it has a longer list of honor pupils than any other class for some years. It is no small feat to be an honor pupil in one's senior year, and they who have accomplished that feat have our most sincere congratulations.

THANK YOU

We of the Year Book Staff wish to express our especial thanks to those teachers who have given much of their time and energy to our Book. Mr. Glasheen has kindly cared for financial matters; Miss Willoughby has devoted much time to the art work; Miss Parker also has given unsparingly of her time to the literary department; Miss Slade and Miss Dennett have typewritten many things for us; and Miss Hardy and Mr. Bramhall have been general advisers, always ready to help and quite invaluable to us.

Thanks are due to many pupils who have worked for us. They have found the work laborious but delightfully interesting.

THE YEAR BOOK STAFF.

School Song

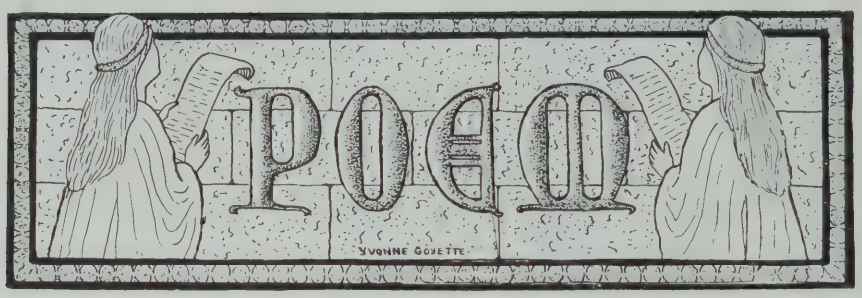
ALMA MATER

Oh Alma Mater, teacher, friend,
Our staunch supporter to the end,
Now here we sing with jubilee
Some fervent praises owed to thee.

Thy praises for the lessons taught,
For wisdom from our folly wrought.
For earnest aid in every need
And hearty help towards better deed.

For teaching us to win and lose,
And in them both a grace infuse,
So for these things we sing to thee
Our praises with great jubilee.

BARBARA BIRKHOFF



Oh, Cambridge High and Latin School,
We come to bid a last good-bye.
Less tranquil days are calling us
With urgent cries we can't deny.

We have completed four short years,
Perhaps through loving sacrifice;
We now must prove that the results
Are truly worth the rigid price.

You gave to us in those four years
The greatest gifts you could bestow,
A practice of good workmanship,
And friends whose love with time will grow.

Our teachers do we owe the most,
For stimulus and kindly aid
Given us unstintedly
In hours of greatest need.

How often we were thankless then,
Unmindful of their constant care.
But now—we now have memories
That future years can not impair.

Now we, the class of twenty-five,
Have come to bid a last good-bye.
The world ahead is calling us
With urgent cries we can't deny.

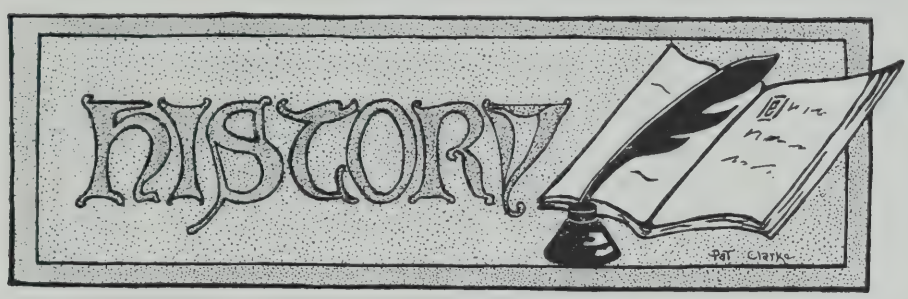
MAN

When man was little more than beast
And hardly man,
He asked no more than food to eat
And the warm sun for light and heat;
Thus man began.
But when he sought for greater things,
Greater he grew.
And Nature showed him treasures here
Which brought him both a nameless fear
And wonder, too.
Thus did he learn, and as he learned
The ages passed.
And what the years had taught him he put by
To teach in turn those who should next descry
Nature so vast.
To us the fund of wisdom came
Which these men found.
May we who follow in their place
Give knowledge to our groping race
Though we may die uncrowned.

W. C.



The middle of September, 1921 marked the beginning of the high school life of the Class of 1925, the largest class to enter the portals of C. H. L. S. There was no blaring of trumpets, nor beating of drums, for the event was unheralded. It was announced only by the laugh and chatter of the new students as they assembled in the hall on that sunny September morning. Being Freshmen promised to be a novel experience to us, and we began with fresh and vigorous aspirations. Here we were to meet with new duties and responsibilities, and we were to be endowed with new privileges. The studies that confronted us, both from their nature and number, gave assurance of an interesting and arduous task. From the start it promised and proved to be both. It took but a few days for everything to get under way, and for a few of the less courageous to get out of the way, since some believed that discretion was the better part of valor, and preferred the cold world to the Latin and Mathematics. Of the first few months of the Freshman year we need not speak. They remain as a vivid memory.

The Sophomore year brought us together again on September 15. The roll call was answered by the majority of the students who had attended our institution the year previous. At the start we discovered that our hours of labor were to be longer and that we were to spend much extra time in study rooms. But the time was destined to pass quickly—too quickly—for besides studying we found that many other things could be enjoyed in the study rooms. Some of our members became so proficient in the science of copying that they wrote whole pages of lessons that they had never seen, while others produced "bluffs" of every description.

The Junior year found us all together in one happy family instead of divided into different gatherings as we had been in our Freshman and Sophomore years. Many familiar faces were missing, several members being absent by the process of elimination by Algebra, Latin, and the other various pitfalls of the young student.

Edward Murtagh was chosen as President of the class, who felt that he was one who would work zealously in behalf of the class. Murtagh more than lived up to expectations, and ran our class nobly. He was fortunate in having Russell Semple, Vice-President, John Fair, Secretary, and Thomas Kenney, Treasurer, as aids in making the class a success. The next thing to claim our attention was the Junior Prom. In an interesting election John Cronin and James F. Harrington were selected to take charge of this important function. After extensive preparation, it was held in Arlington Town Hall, May 16, 1924. It resulted in the greatest social success of our high school life, and still retains a cherished place in our memories. We take this opportunity to thank the committee and Miss McElroy for their untiring efforts to bring our Junior year to a successful climax.

The election of Class officers for our last year in high school resulted in a spirited contest for presidency and the election of James Harrington, Pres.; Barbara Adams, Vice-Prsident; Hugo Nelson, Treasurer; Grant Moxham, Secretary. The Senior year opened with an inspiring talk by our new president, who outlined the duties that confronted us, and exhorted us to make the Senior Year our banner year in every way. He spoke on the necessity of co-operation on the part of every student, and the confidence he had that the class would be an honor to the school. This is the largest senior class that has ever represented our school, and it is a class of which any school could be proud. Under Harrington's energetic leadership we prepared to meet the most strenuous stage in the four years of our journey. Early in the Spring a meeting was called to launch the Year Book on its way, and a group of editors and a committee were appointed to make this book better than any previous book. The members who were selected have been very faithful, and have worked unceasingly to make this book successful. To them and to the support of the class goes the credit of this production. The book was dedicated to Mr. Bramhall by a vote of the seniors. Roy Lamson was given the position of Editor, and by his endeavor a book worth remembering has been produced. Our Senior Drama was held in Brattle Hall, February 20th and 21st. This production was a huge success, due to the efforts of Miss Lillian Hartigan and the members of the cast. It was said to be the best Senior Drama held by any high school, and the huge crowd that attended verifies the statement. It was a credit to the Senior Class to produce such a splendid play.

Our Senior Social resulted well. It was held in Brattle Hall. Mr. Cleveland gave the seniors the period after recess every Thursday for an assembly where we might discuss class matters. Mr. Whoriskey and Miss Hartigan have supplied us with entertainment during that period when there was no business to be brought before the class.

Vantine and Vantine was chosen for the class photographer after a close vote. Their work has been splendid. The Senior Class has more than contributed its share of athletics, speakers, debaters, and workers in the literary field, participants in the dramatics, Glee Clubs, orchestra, and every other activity in the school. At the present writing our history can go no farther. In conclusion let us mention those other members of the class, who, though perhaps not named explicitly in the foregoing history, have been remembered nevertheless, and whose inspiring help forms an integral part of the history of the Class of 1925. And to Cambridge High and Latin School and all of our teachers who have given us those things that we now cherish most highly, let us express our sincere gratitude.

DON KROELL, MILLIONAIRE FOOTBALL STAR, HAS STRANGE ILLNESS.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., May 8 — Mr. Don Kroell, former star of the football field is affected by a strange malady. He has completely turned to a brilliant jade green color. The afflicted man keeps a reverend clergyman always about him. The gentleman is Francis Dinan.

Many old school mates visit Mr. Kroell and endeavor to entertain him with their various accomplishments.

NOTED EXPLORER RETURNS FROM CENTRAL AUSTRALIA

Miss Evelyn Lawson, just back from Unknown Jungles

NEW YORK, May 9—Miss Evelyn Lawson, explorer, has returned from the far east, accompanied by numerous fellow-travellers. The party has discovered a new species of monkey which Sidney Weinstein, scientist, declares to be the missing link. The members of the expedition were as follows:

Josephine Hacian, Mary O'Connell, Ethel McCarthy, Esther Mittell, Mary Sullivan, Alison Marks, Dorothy Boland Eleanor Schoelch.

The party was outfitted by Finlan, Edmunds & Co.

Miss Lawson complains that the outfit was ruined when it fell into the Pacific Ocean although it was guaranteed to stand hard treatment. She is instituting a law-suit against the firm. Counsel for the plaintiff is William Clancy; counsel for the defense, Shirley Gregson.

The expedition was entertained by Station WNAC even when they were in the midst of the jungle. Their radio outfit was operated by James Watts, expert. They say they particularly enjoyed the musical performances of Marie Grenier, pianist; Thomas Napoli, violinist, and Mercedes Vicassovitch, pianist. When the radio was out of order they were entertained by Honora Nelligan who had carried her own pet piano into the wilds on her back.

It was noted that the whole expedition was toothless when it arrived, having broken its teeth on the peanuts donated by H. Gerrish & Co. However, they were soon satisfied, because they were all given sets of all teeth by F. Early and Co.

ROME, April 27—A new Bishop was ordained yesterday by the Pope. His name was Cardinal James Foley. Immediately after the ceremony he rushed out to marry Anna Wasserman and Samuel Gray. Miss Margaret Grosso played the organ at the wedding. She was assisted by Rose Andelman, pianist, and Doris Dandridge and Nina Coward. Everyone, excepting the happy couple, thought the affair a complete success. However, some people ate too much wedding cake, so that the only American doctors in Rome, McKinley Wills and Louis Cohen, were kept in active attendance. However, all signs of stomach ache vanished completely when the married couple in-

Yesterday afternoon Joseph Hurwitz, professional athlete, turned somersaults in the sick man's bed-chamber. Alexander Drewicz insisted on reading to him a whole novel of which he was author and illustrator. Benjamin Carey called to exhibit a perpetual motion device which he has invented, but was soon shown out when it became evident that the device was himself. Thelma Doyle, mayoress of Cambridge, Mass., sent a note of sympathy. The crowning event of the afternoon came, however, when Charles Foskett rushed wildly into the house, shouting at the top of his lungs that at last he had passed the College Board Exams. He was heartily congratulated. It was estimated by Kathryn Langton, Educational Expert, that he will graduate from college in 1980.

JOHN BARRETT OF CAMBRIDGE GIVES DINNER TO CLASSMATES.

CAMBRIDGE, May 8—John Barrett, alumnus of the C. H. L. S., yesterday gave a dinner to his old classmates. The well-known artist, Lester Siemen was there and painted a picture of every guest for ten cents apiece. The pictures have been hung in the Louvre. Howard Grace objected to being painted with a beard which he feared would lessen his popularity; but the artist explained that he had a difficult chin and would have to pay ten cents more if he d'dn't have a beard; whereupon Mr. Grace subsided. In the midst of the dinner, a piece of plaster fell out of the ceiling into Alice Campbell's soup plate. The optimistic lady whose dress was ruined, immediately rose and delivered a speech on centipedes to show that she didn't mind. The host called in a plumber to mend the ceiling. David Kawadler came, but when he discovered what was expected of him he installed a bathtub instead. Agnes Kiely then delivered a speech in praise of her book and the dinner ended happily.

BOSTON, May 4—Yesterday a great tragedy occurred here. The great circus owned by John O'Neil and Ray Pearl which travels around the country was going at full blast at 2.30 in the afternoon. Thousands of people were there, wandering in and out of the tents. Suddenly, at 2.33 and a half, an enormous tornado struck the circus grounds, scattering everyone near and far. Thousands of people in the big tent were blown into the sky, and sailed about for many hours. Among them were James Powers, Lord Henry Reehall, Morris Rosenfield, Judge Walter Russell, Joe Segel, shoe manufacturer, Rev. Tom Quinn, laywer David Ronan, Hyman Rothstein, Dr. Jacob Schoolnick, and Parker Sharpe.

All of these gentlemen are well-known graduates of the C. H. L. S.

The animals were also blown about, but when the wind ceased they came sailing down into the middle of New York, and played great havoc there. Ethel Dansie, Sadie Epstein, Esther Ettenburg and Mona Fraleigh were all eaten by a lion at one gulp. There was nothing left of them but their hairpins.

Among the other people who encountered wild beasts were Minna Goldman, Dorothy Griffith, Hope Grovestein, Harriet Higginson, Elizabeth Hitchcock, Maude Irving and Bernice Jackson. All these brave ladies seized upon zebras, camels, elephants and things, and rode them gaily up Broadway.

Luckily, no one was hurt who was not eaten by a lion. It turned out that some people who enjoyed a pleasant hour in the sky did not arrive there by means of the wind, but through the lightness of their bodies which was occasioned by the lemonade inside of them, sold by Fred MacAleer. Martha Williams, Muriel Yost, Sylvia Abelson, and Vera Allingham all gave vivid descriptions of the feelings inside of them.

HIGH AND LATIN.

High and Latin, hail to thee,
  Hail to thee, our school most dear,
Thy light shall ever be
  A beacon bright and clear;
Thy sons and daughters true
  Will proclaim thee near and far;
We will guard thy fame
  And adore thy name;
Thou shalt be our guiding star.

W. G.

There is a law of Nature, which remains
Throughout the years, relentless and supreme.
'Tis the foundation rock of Life's whole scheme,
'Gainst which we strive with unavailing pains.
We would be rich, successful in an hour;
Something for nothing is our foolish thought.
Results, when effort lacks, are vainly sought;
And influence won with ease is short-lived power.
All ruses, tricks, and substitutes devised
To take the place of normal, honest toil.
Are, by the wise, discarded and despised—
True victors only claim the victor's spoil.
By law of compensation do we live,
Forever we shall get but what we give.

WHAT MA SAID.

Who cares if you be prince or pauper
Long's ya' do just what yer aughter?
When I was young Ma said to me:
"Take care yourself, let others be.
Be kind ter beasts and reptiles too
For they n'er done a thing to you.
Lend a hand where e'er it's needed
And let yer brow wid sweat be beaded.
Share your luck and joy with all,
Stand on ya feet, don't try to crawl.
Be yourself, not full of airs
That never get you anywheres.
Take all virtue for your own,
Make your harvest honest grown
Live as one of God's own creatures,
Love all nature, let her teach 'er
'Stead thinking that its you that knows
And show your ig'rance in that pose."

Candidates were called out by Coach Leander MacDonald two days after the fall term opened. About one hundred candidates reported and, together with an entire veteran team, the outlook was very bright. The majority of the fellows had been working all summer and were in excellent condition. The team did not find itself until the middle of the season and then it defeated the best teams in the Suburban League. The team finished in the fourth p'ace; winning four games, losing four, and tieing Everett, the Suburban League champions. "Jerry" Sullivan was elected to captain the team for 1925.

Coach MacDonald issued a call for baseball candidates and 60 boys reported. The prospects for this year look very good as seven of last years nine have returned and are holding down their former positions.

The following week the 1924 baseball players met and unanimously elected "Bill" Clancy captain of this years team. Captain Clancy is one of the best twirlers in the Suburban League, which is saying a great deal when such pitchers as "Danny" McFayden of Somerville and "Webber" Knox of Medford are included.

At present the team is sharing first place with Somerville High in the Suburban League race, having won two games and lost none.

Gibson, Kelleher, Gnerre, O'Connell, Dilworth, Clancy and Cronin, the veterans, are playing good baseball; while Cote and McGowan, the new recruits, are playing like veterans. Mc Cusker, MacDonald, Lennon, Schoolnick, and Dente are ready to fill in if the veterans should fall behind.

Cambridge High and Latin School had a good hockey team this year in spite of the fact that it did not win the championship of the Interscholastic League.

The features of the season were the victories over Exeter, Harvard 2nd, Pomfret, and the tie game with Melrose. This team later won the championship. Rindge and many other rivals fell before Coach Leander MacDonald's charges.

Captain Nelson, Clancy, and Fitzgerald were a strong trio on the defense.

Captain Nelson, Captain-elect Gibson, Joyce, O'Connel, Clancy, Fitzgerald, Harlow, Schoolnich, Cullinan, and Groden received letters.

SWIMMING TEAM.

H. Barber C. Foskett D. Greer E. Murtagh B. Goldenberg
D. Dudley C. Stevens T. Kenney L. Neville R. Collett

The swimming team was, without doubt, the best balanced team that has ever represented the school in the history of that sport. Competing against the fastest high school teams in the state, the team emerged with seven victories and two defeats, the last named being lost by the narrow margin of the relay race in both instances.

In the New England Inter-scholastics in which over twenty-five teams from all over the state competed, Cambridge Latin gave an excellent account of itself by finishing in third place.

The following teams were forced to bow before the Cantab Mermen: Mass. Technology Freshmen, Malden High, Rindge Tech., Boston English High, Boston Latin School, Boston College High and East Boston High, and Newton-Cambridge meet ended in a 25 to 25 deadlock. Rindge Tech. was downed for the second successive year without being able to score a first place. The team was captained by Tom Kenney who proved his superiority over other high school sprinters by his clean-cut win in the New England 50-yard championships, also leading the school boys with 124 points to his credit.

CROSS COUNTRY.

P. Dente J. Trainor J. Sughrue C. Murray W. Toomey
H. Adelson J. Maloney, Capt. R. Wood

For the last three years our cross country teams have enjoyed considerable success. We have without doubt turned out some of the best "hill and dalers" in the State. We have defeated Arlington, St. John's Prep., Stoneham, Wakefield, and Rindge. Every one of these high schools has been considered among the best. Arlington High held the championship in 1923, and Rindge was in the runner-up position. St. John's Prep. has always turned out the best cross-country teams in preparatory school circles.

Our team journeyed to Williamstown, and after a bitter struggle was defeated by the Williams' Freshmen. This was quite a feat as Williams' College has turned out many well-known cross-country men.

The boys who have brought all this glory to Cambridge High and Latin are Captain Joseph Maloney, Russell Wood, Pasquale Dente, and Frederick Meuse. "Fred" Meuse was not allowed to represent the school the entire season because of scholastic difficulties. He is considered one of the leading "hill and dalers" in the state, and had he participated the entire year, the state cross-country championship might have been ours. These boys deserve much credit as cross-country is considered one of the most gruelling sports, and demands more grit and determination than probably any other sport.

THE TRACK TEAM.

J. Murphy, Capt. J. Trainor J. Langone Mr. Sheehan, Coach C. Foskett T. Harhen A. Hilliard
R. Wood D. Brewer J. Maloney F. Murray K. Lewis

Track, although only a minor sport at school, is one of the most difficult sports in which to obtain a letter. This fact is because of the small number of dual meets. It necessitates the scoring of points in an interscholastic meet, a feat which in itself requires a track man of high calibre. It is extremely hard to obtain a good sized squad to report for track practice. The C. H. L. S. team is coached by Mr. Sheehan, who does remarkably well with the little material that he has. The team performed very well in the Boston College Interscholastics, also in the Harvard and Suburban league meets during the past season. John Murphy was captain of the team, and proved himself an ideal leader. He was the Interscholastic Champion in the 1000 yard dash during the indoor season, and is considered to be the best high school miler in New England.

CHESS TEAM.

S. Andelman Mr. Sullivan, Coach P. Pertzoff N. Long H. Isenstein M. Andelman
H. Adelson E. Stokes I. Hernandez S. Fishman

C. H. L. S. can boast of one championship team this year, namely the chess team. By the work of this team another cup is to be added to the trophy room. This team has not lost a game in all the League Schedule, which it has completed. To Mr. Joseph Sullivan a great deal of credit should be given for his able coaching. The captain of the team, J. Hernandez, also deserves much praise. This year's team, one of the finest the school has ever had, won the beautiful silver cup last year.

This club was established in 1921 under the direction of James Leonard. Owing to Mr. Leonard's departure for the Merrill School, Mr. Sullivan was appointed director.

The players responsible for the success of the team are: Captain Hernandez, H. Isenstein, N. Long, S. Andelman, P. Pertzoff, M. Andelman, S. Fishman, H. Adelson, F. Hernandez, L. Goldman. Tournaments were arranged with Rindge, Brookline, and Somerville. Somerville once managed to gain a draw on our team owing to the fact that several of the players were not playing because of illness. The team showed its superiority over them by defeating them to the tune of 5½ to ½. Rindge, our rival, was defeated three times; once by a perfect score, and twice by the score of five to one.

We sincerely hope that the team will keep up its good work, and we are looking forward to another championship from the club of 1926.

THE FRENCH CLUB.

H. Poulus L. Anderson G. Boutin

S. Gregson Miss McIntire

The French Club was organized during the year of 1923-24 with many favorable educational ideas. Although the matter was new, the pupils of our school did not fail to show their love for and appreciation of, progressive movements. The promising number of twenty-one members was an excellent example of school spirit. We are glad to remark that the strength of the Club has greatly increased this year. The number of members has been more than tripled.

The meetings, which took place every other Friday afternoon, were all very successful. We were always fortunate in having either some good lecturer, or a short play, given by talented members of our group. It has been made a rule that the French Club should give a play, in French, every year for all the pupils of the French department. The social meetings will be remembered by all members, and the various amusements will be examples for good, pure school life.

The success of this Club must be attributed to the hearty co-operation of the faculty, and to the efforts of the officers of this year. The officers, Leroy Anderson, president; Germaine Boutin, vice-president; Harry Poulos, secretary; and Shirley Gregson, treasurer; have devoted much of their time for the benefit of the Club.

Time has been spent, but not wasted. The results prove that the French Club was an organization needed by the school, and that its work is educational as well as social.

With this opportunity we wish to thank sincerely all those who have participated in any way to further the success of our organization, trusting that the friendly sentiment and interest shown will be strengthened in future years.

The Home Economics Club, under the direction of Miss Harrington, started its second year in October. The officers elected for this year are as follows:

President—Mary Houlihan, '26
Secretary—Mary Creedman, '25
Treasurer—Rae MacLachlan, '25

The meeting days were changed from the first and third Wednesdays of each month to the first and third Tuesdays. Each month we have had a meeting on the first Tuesday and a trip on the third Tuesday.

Members of the club visited the Beautiful Homes Exhibit and the Food Fair and gave interesting talks about their visits.

After that, the girls went to H. P. Hood's Ice Cream Plant. They spent an interesting hour seeing how ice cream was mixed, frozen, and packed.

The next visit was to the George Close Candy factory on Broadway. Here the girls feasted their eyes as well as themselves on huge quantities of candy, both finished and in the making.

On January 21st, the club spent a pleasant afternoon at the Priscilla Proving Plant in Newton. The girls saw how all sorts of modern home contrivances were given hard tests before they could receive the three-leaf clover of approval from the Priscilla Proving Plant. This plant is run by the "Modern Priscilla" Magazine for the benefit of its readers and all others who wish to profit by the tests of the plant.

The Club's next trip was to Hathaway's. Girls may think they are proficient in the art of bread-making, but the club girls were surprised to find men who know just as much about that art as they do.

Plans have been made for trips in March, April, and May, with a party for all the members in June.

The name Klawhowja Bjustofe, full of mystery as it might seem, is only the legal title of a very small group of young women known as the K. B's. It started out as debating club but with a decline of interest of its members in debating, it has gradually developed into a club, the aim of whose members is to support in every way, every movement for the advancement or interest of the school. As a body the members have always tried to attend the games of and root for the football, baseball and debating teams.

Later in the year, when dramatics take the place of outdoor sports, the club assumes the responsibility of soliciting candy, the entire profits of the sale of which are given directly to the senior dramatics which the K. B's feel should be encouraged by all.

Individual cases of need are taken care of cheerfully through the club members by private donation. One of the greatest pleasures is the preparation and distribution of the Thanskgiving dinner baskets.

The meetings of the club take place twice a month and when the weather permits, one of these is spent in hiking. The membership to the club is open but the number is limited to twenty.

The K. B.'s wish to take this opportunity to thank their president, Alice Guertin, and advisors, Miss McElroy and Miss Hartigan, who have given so generously both their time and counsel.

DEBATING.

S. Fishman — W. Flynn — J. Foley

H. Adelson, Sec. — Mr. Donahue, Coach — R. Lamson, Pres.

The debating team of Cambridge High and Latin School provided little entertainment this past term, mainly because of the lack of experienced debaters to rely upon in our major debates.

For once in years, the Durrell Debate, always an event eagerly looked forward to, failed to be conducted, and our annual Rindge Debate was also cancelled, but, on the other hand, the Freshman-Sophomore series of debates, won by the latter, revealed many future debating prospects, and provided much entertainment to the auditors.

A marked advancement in debating was taken when for the first time in the annals of Cambridge High and Latin School, a class in debating was conducted by Mr. Donahue, our debating coach, who met with remarkable success in polishing off the rugged debaters.

The debating council wishes to express its appreciation of the services rendered to them by Miss Hartigan and Mr. Donahue.

The "Review" has had a very successful year. It has been acclaimed and supported by the students and acknowledged by exchanges in this continent and in Europe. Success, however, is the result of conscientious effort. This effort has certainly been shown by the "Review" staff whose members have worked hard to make our school one of the best. The "Review" is the voice of every school organization and through its influence a greater interest in school activities has been aroused. The paper was under the leadership of Roy Lamson, as editor-in-chief and Haskell Freedman, business manager. Wilma Cannon and Barbara Birkhoff have been our literary editors. Nathan Fradkin and Henry Adelson have "chased ads" with great success. We have been made to laugh by "Class Notes" selected and arranged by Patience Clarke and Dorothy Gray, "Class Notes Editors". David Dudley has kept us informed on all sports. We have stirred to interest in debating by William Flynn, debating editor. Elbridge G. Emmons has collected more alumni notes than we thought possible. The G. A. A. has been well repersented on the paper by Agnes Frost, G. A. A. editor. Dana Doten has kept the midnight lamp burning reading exchanges. In art, we have had two able workers, Yvonne Goyette and Raymond Mosher. Catherine Murphy and Olive Fields have been our staff typists. Last in order but not in importance we have Miss Hardy, our faculty advisor through whose careful work and helping experience, the "Review" has been made a good school paper.

The year 1925 has proven a success both for the G. A. A. and the Basket Ball teams. The officers of the G. A. A. have been untiring in their efforts to make the G. A. A. prominent, and their labor has not gone unrewarded.

The social calendar of the G. A. A. was filled with many parties. The famous Girl Dance was as popular as usual.

Many excellent games were played between the Freshmen and Sophomore Basketball teams, and intense interest was shown in these games by the undergraduates. An innovation was introduced when the Sophomore Basketball team met Newton in a well-contested game.

Much credit should be given to Miss Brown and to Miss McLaughlin. Their experience and kindly advice have been a source of strength to the G. A. A. and the Basketball teams.

THE MUSIC DEPARTMENT.

The Music Department of the Cambridge High and Latin School consists of five separate divisions—the Chorus, the Choir, the Glee Club, the Orchestra, and the Harmony Class.

The Chorus is made up of those who perhaps play no instrument, but who desire to learn about music and musical works. Compositions in different styles are played and analyzed so that all may understand.

The membership of the Choir is limited to those who show their ability to sing and read music. The aim of this organization is to teach part singing, and to train the singers to keep on their parts.

The Glee Club is restricted to boys, and serves the same purpose as the Choir. There is a cup for which the Glee Club must contest with Rindge each year.

The instrument players in the school derive experience and practice from the Orchestra. They are aided greatly in the study of their instruments by associating with other players, and they learn to follow the conductor's baton. The Orchestra appears several times during the year at school activities.

Only advanced students may enroll in the Harmony Class. Here intervals, the construction of chords, and harmonic progression are studied, and at the end of the year original compositions are attempted.

The Music Department is fortunate in having Mr. Whoriskey as its head; he is very competent to instruct all organizations, and those under his instruction have derived much benefits from their courses.

FACULTY

One of the chief joys of seniors is the finding out, after four years' sojourn in high school, that teachers are neither ogres nor witches, but perfectly normal human beings, and very splendid ones at that. It reinforces our faith in human nature very much to discover this agreeable fact. At the same time, we suddenly realize that, far from having suffered from the teachers, as we are fond of believing, they have suffered from us; and that we owe them more than we can ever express in words for their patience, interest and sympathy.

Mr. Cleveland's kindness and patience and the ability with which he carries out his many duties command our admiration and respect. We have a deep affection for the man who moves so quietly about the school with a word here and there straightening everyone's problems and guiding us all. We are proud to have had such a head master and we thank him for the example he has been to us.

There is nothing to be said in appreciation of Mr. Bramhall which has not already been said many times. Yet we cannot praise him too much. Mr. Bramhall has knowledge, interest, energy and kindliness enough for a hundred people. We are continually amazed at the enormous number of duties which he can successfully discharge without sacrificing one jot of his enthusiasm. He is never too tired to appreciate a joke. He is never too impatient to explain at length a simple point to a dull pupil. He is an excellent teacher of mathematics. Altogether, Mr. Bramhall is quite incomparable.

Mr. Derry is loved and admired by all of us as a friend and a scholar. There is an atmosphere of warm kindliness about him that makes one happy on just meeting him in the corridors.

Miss Hardy is a splendid teacher and very human. She has a most appreciative smile and a sympathetic sense of humor. The "Review" is successful largely because of her aid and advice, and this Year-Book is also greatly indebted to her.

Miss Sampson is what we should like, if we dared, to call a "peach". If she objects to this familiarity we can only answer that she makes us feel so intimate we cannot help it. There is no teacher more truly in sympathy with her pupils or more genuinely appreciative of what they are interested in.

All her pupils will swear that Miss Schroeder is the most amusing and most interesting of teachers. Her humor is most original and infectious. Her knowledge is amazing in its variety, and her classes learn philosophy, religion, and the principles of social clinics as well as a great deal of English.

Miss Flanders is a splendid teacher, worthy to be a professor in the best of colleges. She has such untiring enthusiasm as to make even Burke and Milton interesting. She is one of those rare beings, a real intellectual.

For her hearty and effective promotion of undergraduate activities and in recognition of her never-failing friendship for us all, we, the class of nineteen twenty-five, wish to express our most hearty thanks to Miss Lillian R. Hartigan.

Miss Willoughby, who teaches mechanical drawing, will always be remembered for her willingness to help in school activities. She has been extremely popular with her pupils and has always done her best to aid them in their work.

As head of the English Department, Miss Butler gives herself unsparingly to her work, and with those who seek enlightenment she is ever ready to share her knowledge.

Miss McIntyre has patiently and successfully endeavored to create a real interest in French among the pupils of the schools. Her work in the French Club is much appreciated.

Mr. Jacobs' pleasant method of teaching has a collegiate atmosphere about it that gives us an agreeable foretaste of college methods. He makes things very real to us by deftly putting in little intimate touches which we can appreciate and which turn ancient historical characters into ordinary people.

Mr. Whoriskey is a musician from head to foot. That can easily be perceived in his noble face. Even those unfortunate pupils who do not know him personally are strongly attracted to him; and those who have the privilege of studying with him have deep respect and affection for him.

Mr. Downey makes a splendid freshman master. His pleasant personality and fair judgment have made him a great favorite. His teaching of science is so well done that the interest of his pupils is held fast.

Mr. Sheehan, in addition to being a popular history teacher is also coach for several of the athletic teams. The success of the athletes speaks louder than words in praise of him.

The senior normal girls of this class are very much indebted to their Home Room teacher, Miss Parker, for her interest in them. She has helped them in many different ways. From among these girls, there will be many successful teachers if they profit by her advice and teaching.

To Miss Crook we wish to extend our sincere appreciation and gratitude for the great interest which she has taken in our work. In her room she has always made us feel really at home. As a home-room teacher and as an English teacher she will be long remembered.

As an adviser, Miss McElroy has been a guiding spirit to the girls of this class. As an English teacher, she has succeeded in arousing in her pupils a love of the best literature.

Popular with home-room and class pupils alike is Miss Stickney. Her interest and real friendship are much appreciated by all her students.

Miss Morton has always been a willing helper of her Art students. We have missed her very much this year when she has been ill, and we hope that the expression of our gratitude to her may help to make her well with its healing power.

Another member of the faculty who is loved by both boys and girls is Mr. Sullivan. Besides teaching History and Civics, he also finds time to make champions out of the members of his Chess team.

Mr. Glasheen has assisted hundreds over the rough road of bookkeeping, but never a more appreciative class than we are. We shall never forget him.

Miss Dolan is a friend and a teacher who is possessed of much historical knowledge. She is unswervingly just, truly dignified, and altogether fine.

Miss Mason constantly seeks to make her classes interesting. And we will vouch for it that she has succeeded. We all enjoy her teaching.

Miss Hite, although new to most of us, has endeared herself to all those who have come in contact with her. She is always helpful, cheerful and ready to smile at the antics of her pupils.

Miss Ford is very popular with everyone, for she enters into the class spirit like a pupil. She is an energetic, tireless worker. We especially admire her pronunciation of French and her wide knowledge of that language.

Mr. Cain, who has guided us through the depths of Commercial Law and past the pitfalls of Bookkeeping, is a man of great understanding and intellectuality. We hear that he will spend his summer vacation in Nova Scotia, and that he is fond of fishing. We hope the fish will be biting well.

The student body owes a great debt of thanks to Mr. MacDonald for turning out such finished athletic teams as he has. He is very versatile and can coach almost any sort of a team. During his many years here he has turned out many stars. We hereby express our admiration and gratitude.

Miss Sawyer has instructed many a wayward pupil in the lore of Commercial English and her pupils have gone abroad well armed for the fight of life with something that is essential to success. She has not only done this, but she has also made all her pupils love her and trust her because of her motherliness.

Miss Baldwin is the incarnation of patience and care. Those few of her pupils who have failed know well that no teacher could have done more to prevent it. And the many that have passed realize gratefully who has mainly made it possible.

Miss Fisher, Miss Dennett and Miss Slade have all given us invaluable assistance in typewriting articles for the "Review" and the Year-Book and numerous notices; to say nothing of their being most excellent teachers, the actual value of whose courses none can surpass.

High Lights

If you will but let your thoughts wander back through the corridors of C. H. L. S., from the many smiling faces these persons seem to be especially defined. We did not see everyone at once, nor shall we meet them all here, but from these we are sure you will recall some of the highest lights in the senior class of nineteen twenty-five.

James Harrington was the boy with a smile. He knew everyone and was always making friends,—especially with the girls. The class found in him the fine qualities of a leader.

Roy Lamson, the valedictorian of the class of nineteen hundred and twenty-five is, without doubt, one of the most accomplished students that has ever graduated from the Cambridge High and Latin School. He has been closely associated with almost every school activity, and it is through his work and by his aid that we have been able to have such an excellent school paper. He has been most interested in debating. This undoubtedly led him to be so very successful on the debating team. His work as editor-in-chief of our Year Book does not need to be spoken of, for you will readily see it as you peruse this book. He is going to Harvard, and the students and the faculty are bidding a sad adieu to one of the best, Roy Lamson.

Alice Guertin has endeared herself to many of us by her pleasant ways. Not only did she delight everyone as the leading lady in the Senior Drama, but she has also entertained us more than once at assembly with her charming voice.

Thomas Kenney, an active boy in all our school work, is going to Mercersburg. Tom was secretary of the Junior Class, is captain of the swimming team, a letter man in football, and the advertising manager of our Year Book.

"Red" Finlayson was not only prominent in the Senior Drama and football field, but in all his classes, as his teachers can testify.

Hugo Nelson, also a leading light in the Senior Drama, football and hockey, is known to all the policemen as the "Speed-King."

Ray Pearl proved himself an actor of no small ability in the Senior Drama and football star of great merit on the gridiron.

Lawrence Gibson is one of the leading athletes in the history of the school. He is a three-letter man, having been honored in baseball, football, and hockey. His ability is not restricted to the athletic field, however, for he has a fine singing voice. His work in the Senior Drama was excellent.

Bill Clancy is a great star. He has been most brilliant at hockey, but he shines best on the diamond where he has been responsible many times for putting Cambridge over the top.

"Chuck" Dilworth was anything but disappointing every time he got a turn at the bat. We did not envy the ball.

"Bunny" Cronin is another lad whom we all knew in and around the school and on the diamond.

Jeannette Hershon and Ellen Small both took difficult parts in the Senior Drama. Florence Ricker was a gracious Duchess in the performance. Many of us saw her as a faithful assistant to Miss Butler. We are proud of Gladys Howarth for her honor work.

Barbara Adams served her class faithfully as vice-president and on the pin committee. She has shown class spirit throughout her work, and has tried very hard to make the class a success.

George Larson was well known to the seniors of nineteen twenty-five for his splendid work in making the financial end of the class a success. He broke all records for getting subscriptions to the "Review". Later he worked hard on the Staff as subscription manager to put the Year Book across.

Grant Moxham was an agreeable fellow and a real good scout. He did most admirable work in the Senior Drama and certainly deserves all the praise he received. We all could depend on "Moxie" in a football game, too.

The ever studious Don Kroell could not escape notice. His fine work on our football team and in the drama speaks for itself.

Besides being popular, Clyde McArdle has been ready and willing to do a great deal for the Year Book.

To Alison Marks belongs great credit. She has more than done well her duty as literary editor. She has shirked no responsibility and has accomplished everything in her pleasant way.

Edward Murtagh was the president of our class last year and the hero of "Beau Brummel". He likes football and the ladies.

Yvonne Goyette is the unassuming artist whose pen has so often made us laugh. Drewicz not only writes well but is also an artist. We are all most familiar with the cartoons which Yvonne and Alexander have presented.

Charles Carruth has been a well known and popular member of this senior class. He served on the social committee.

Everyone must have seen "Hutch" Freedman, who has worked so hard for the school paper and many other activities. "Hutchie" is a fellow with a heart in his work; we can all appreciate him.

Majorie Johnson has done noble work on the picture committee. We cannot thank her too well for the trouble she has taken in getting the pictures taken and prepared for the Year Book.

Alice Mutch was a great help to the book as assistant business manager.

Here, too, we must mention a few prominent members of the so-called "Kolleej Krowd", "Sis" Murphy, Helen Doyle, and "Gert" Dunbar.

Everyone knows "Lazy" Tom Kelleher whose hearty laugh might have been heard echoing through C. H. L. S. at almost any hour of the day.

Daniel Shaughnessey, another of the football stars, and senior drama artist, is to enter Notre Dame University. Dan has always been active in sports and intends to be a football coach.

We have not by any means mentioned all the "high lights" for if we did our book would be over a foot thick. But when you are old and gray this little journal will be a valueless source of comfort to you as you scan our "Leading Lights."

Memories and Friendship

The Class of Nineteen Twenty-five
  Has won its classroom strife.
But now it has to try and strive,
  To win a place in the game of life.
It has conquered and is supreme.
  In its little world, it has done
Many activities, helpful and clean;
  And yet its work is hardly begun.
Its members will soon be scattered
  In every city, village or town.
And each will soon have mastered
  Each trouble, each up and down.
But they will take with them the memory
  Of the many happy days spent here,
The scene of their first victory
  That was without its peer.
And they will gather once a year
  To meet again, and revive
Those friendships and memories so dear
  To the Class of Nineteen Twenty-five.

Prize Speaking

On May 13, 1925 the annual Liberty Prize Speaking Contest, a memorial to the World War, was held in the Latin School Hall. Eight students, four boys and four girls, competed for the dual honors. The program was as follows:

C. H. L. S. Orchestra

THE ADMIRAL'S GHOST — Alfred Noyes
Theodore Gatto

MASTER JOHNNIE'S NEXT DOOR NEIGHBOR — Bret Harte
Ellen Small

GUNGA DIN — Rudyard Kipling
Burke Rivers

THE SKELETON IN ARMOR — Henry W. Longfellow
Ruth Melnick

VOCAL SELECTIONS:
Soloist—Alice Guertin
Accompanist—Leroy Anderson

ABRAHAM LINCOLN — Henry Waterson
John Morris

THE GHOST STORY — Booth Tarkington
Dorothy Gray

THE DEATHBED OF BENEDICT ARNOLD — Anonymous
Henry Adelson

SCUM O' THE EARTH — Robert Schauffler
Jeannette Hershon

These selections, ranging from the pathetic to the comical, held the attention of the audience to the final number. While the judges, Miss Marguerite Baldwin, Mr. Francis McCabe, and Mr. Irvah L. Winter, were deciding on the winners, the orchestra and Miss Alice Guertin, accompanied by Leroy Anderson, again favored the audience with several charming selections. Miss Marguerite Baldwin, acting as chairman of the judging committee, awarded the decision to Dorothy Gray for the girls, and Henry Adelson for the boys. Ellen Small was given honorable mention. The prizes were given out by Mrs. Edmund A. Whitman of the school committee.

Among the many splendid selections which were given, Dorothy Gray captured her listeners with her charming interpretations of "The Ghost Story". The audience time after time broke out into peals of laughter at the manners of the modest hero of the theme.

Henry Adelson's selection "The Deathbed of Benedict Arnold" revealed the more worthy side of Arnold's character and the remorse he suffered for his treason.

Ellen Small gave a pathetic story of the friendship of two little children which ended with the death of one of them. The pathos of death left the audience a little saddened but the remainder of the program soon dispelled this mist.

The success of the program was, as always, due to Miss Hartigan's careful supervision and the musical program under the direction of John B. Whoriskey.

"Beau Brummel", the play which was staged by the seniors of Cambridge High and Latin School, was originally produced at the Madison Square Gardens on May 17, 1890. It is safe to say that this particular production created no greater an impression in that city than did its revival at the hands of Miss Lillian Hartigan's clever company of players at Brattle Hall, February 20 and 21, 1925.

Nowadays, a great many critics consider the "costume play" out of date and a little old fashioned. We are drawn more to the modern society drama or comedy, or we enjoy listening to the gossipy chatter of debs, or sub-debs and their cohorts. In fact this is done so much that a "costume play" presented as it was at Brattle Hall comes as a welcome relief.

To begin with, this play was the best example of stage craft turned out by this author, Clyde Fitch. As every one knows, "Beau Brummel" was the best work he ever penned.

The production of the play was superb. Any one who has ever been in Brattle Hall knows of its limitations. But what was lacking in the atmosphere of the down-town theatre was more than made up in enthusiasm, both from those in the audience and on the stage.

Much credit should go to our staunch and loved friend, Miss Lillian R. Hartigan. As one knows, Miss Hartigan has been with us a good many years, but I doubt if ever before she turned out a play as finely finished and polished as this was.

This safe and unstinted credit should also extend itse'f down through the cast. To begin with, Grant Moxham as Mortimer, the "gentlemen's gentleman", was excellent. Moxham's understanding of the role elicited praise from all who saw him. It was a rather difficult portrayal ably done. This should also be said of Louis Cohen, who later doubled as First Bailiff, and with Lawrence Gibson, as Second Bailiff, afforded us no little amusement at their persistence in collecting what was due them.

Edward Walsh, as a man of trade with an eye to business, was in every action all that a pawnbroker of that period could be.

Raymond Pearl, our noble gridiron hero, as Reginald Courtenay, the winner of the hand of Marianna Vincent, played by Alice Guertin, displayed a smoothness a la Valentino that was surprising. Miss Guertin made a most charming leading lady.

Jeanette Hershon, as Mrs. St. Aubyn, the villainess of the play, carried a most distasteful part to a happy and successful finish.

Miss Florence Ricker, as an elderly gentlelady in a character role, looked and acted her part to perfection.

H. Nelson R. Pearl D. Kroell G. Moxham D. Shaughnessey L. Cohen
G. Reardon J. Hershon F. Shea F. Ricker A. Lehane L. McKeever M. Donnelly E. Manning
M. Finlayson A. Guertin Miss Hartigan E. Murtagh E. Small R. Schnitzlein

Don Kroell, as Richard Sheridan, the friend of Royalty, and Hugo Nelson as the Prince of Wales, were both splendid. Nelson's acting in his dislike for the "Beau" was noteworthy.

Mr. Oliver Vincent, portrayed by Murdock Finlayson, proved to be a rather gruff but hearty sort of a person, at the hands of Finlayson. His interpretation of the character was more than "well, well, well" done.

And now we come to the name of Edward Murtagh. Murtagh played Beau Brummel, and what a performance he gave. In fact one continually forgot he was witnessing an amateur performance, so vivid and realistic did Murtagh play. Sincere, convincing, every move carefully planned, poise, diction, in fact everything that goes to make a noteworthy, performance, was given by Murtagh.

Miss Gertrude Reardon, as the trusted maid servant of Marianna, was fine. Her dialect almost made us believe she was really of Cockney descent.

When Ellen Small appeared on the scene in the last act, as the erratic and unsympathetic landlady, she seemed to jolt us from a reverie into which we had fallen. Although it was only a small part, it made us wish she had had more dialogue.

Ruth Schnitzlein, as Lady Farthingale, a lady of the court, was splendid in her carriage, manners, and smoothness.

Last but not least Daniel Shaughnessy, as Lord Manly, a very eccentric person who gave us some good hearty laughs in his lovemaking to Marianna Vincent. He carried a very difficult part, and acquitted himself very creditably.

Then, as the members of the class had shown their skill in acting, we showed our ability in dancing to the tuneful melodies of Phil Lawrence's Orchestra.

So ends our Senior Drama. We hope that the next Senior Class will be able to present to the public a drama as good as ours, and we are sure that with Miss Hartigan as a director a class could produce a play which could worthily grace any stage.

FORTY YEARS FROM NOW.

I'm sitting sad beneath a tree,
A book at either hand,
Eyes wand'ring to the blue-green sea
That laps on golden sand.
I've trave'ed long through China,
Have worn their silks and voiles,
Romanced when but a minor
In the warmth of tropic isles.
Life smiled rosy on my path,
Cares were never mine,
I sailed in many a foreign craft
And dared to drink their wine.
Now I'm dreaming, not of gold,
Or lands I've known so well,
But wishing for the days of old
And the lost ring of the school bell.

SOCIALS

From the lips of a wise man comes the remark, "Variety is the spice of life." In our four short years at C. H. L. S. we endeavored to prove to the ever doubting world that the above quotation was true. Our social activities have been many and these have brought us all into a closer relationship and greater understanding than could have been obtained in the classroom.

When in swaddling clothes as freshman, verdant and pure, we held a Get-Together Day in the assembly hall of the Latin building. Our table obtained the second highest sum of money, and it was then our career started.

The sophomore year was passed quietly, and in our junior year we again stepped into the social whirl and immediately proceeded to elect our class officers with the following results:

President—Edward Murtagh Treasurer—Thomas Kenney
Vice-President—Russel Semple Secretary—John Fair

Following this was the G. A. A. Boy Dance which we attended in the gymnasium of the Latin School building. The music was furnished by Phil Lawrence's orchestra, which came up to its usual high standard.

We attended the Senior Drama given by the class of twenty-four at Brattle Hall. Their play, "The Romantic Age", was a fine piece of work and ably produced by them.

Our Junior Prom was held at Arlington Town Hall in the month of May. It was our crowning success of the year, and as we danced to Dick Rice's orchestra we realized that at last we had made a name for ourselves.

Finally when we reached up and attained our long sought for goal as Seniors we held our class elections, and the following won offices:

President—James Harrington Treasurer—Hugo Nelson
Vice-President—Barbara Adams Secretary—Grant Moxham

The Senior Drama, played by the picked members of our class, was given at Brattle Hall and was the best work ever turned out by our loved friend and advisor, Miss Lillian M. Hartigan. "Beau Brummel" was the title of the play; the play itself does not need further mention as anyone who saw this excellent production would tell you.

The Senior Social was held at Brattle Hall in April and delightful music was furnished by "The Campus Serenaders" an orchestra from "Tech," under the direction of Roy Lamson. Mr. and Mrs. Bramhall, Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland, Miss Hartigan and Miss McElroy were our patrons and patronesses.

We attended the Junior Prom of the class of twenty-six held at Elks' Ballroom in May. This affair was a tremendous success and was a credit to the work of twenty-six.

Our Senior Reception, the largest dance of the year and our last farewell to our many happy days spent together at C. H. L. S. will be held at Walker Memorial in June.

The sun is sinking in the west,
The parting of the ways has come
And we shall leave our work, the very best
For future years to come. C. M.

Mr. MacD. (exasperated): "Well, what do you think I've been talking about?"

Voice from the rear of the room: "About ten minutes."

"Now it's just like I was a-saying," said Pat to a group of listeners. "Onct whin me gang wuz puttin' up a sky-scraper, I fell fer three stories and never hurt meself a bit."

"But how could a person fall for three stories and not be hurt?" asked one of the group.

"Well," said Pat with a twinkle in his eye, "you've already fallen fer one and I guess fallin' fer two more won't hurt yer."

A fragment of an oral theme about Keats—"He died, thereby breaking an engagement with his girl."

Bert: "I'm looking for a book that would interest a university co-ed."

Clerk: "Sorry sir, we are out of that type just now, you see we've been raided twice this month."

Under the swinging "el" car strap
The old maid stands and stands
And stands and stands and stands and stands
And stands and stands and stands.

He: "Where did you do your skating while learning?"
She: "I think you're horrid."

"Did you see Oliver Twist, Aunty?"
"Hush, child, you know I never attend modern dances."

Question: "Is blowing out the gas out of style?"
Answer: "Yes. Nowadays they step on it—same results."

Ouch!

"Does your husband ever deceive you?" asked the curious person.

"No," said the philosophical wife. "He often lies to me but he never deceives me."

A frown is a disease for which a smile is the only remedy.

Husband: "Telling lies is not one of my failings."
Wife: "No, dear; it's one of your few successes."

A farmer came to town to insert a death announcement.
"How much do you charge?" he asked.
"Ten shillings an inch," was the reply.
"Heavens! He was over six feet high!"

You will not be arrested for—Killing Time, Hanging Pictures, Running over a new song, Smothering a laugh, or Murdering the English language.

Muleology.

"On mules we find
Two legs behind,
Two we find before.
We stand behind
Before we find
What the two behind be for!"
The codfish lays a million eggs,
While the helpful hen lays one;
But the codfish does not cackle
To tell what she has done.
And so we scorn the codfish coy,
But the helpful hen we prize,
Which indicates to thoughtful minds,
It pays to advertise.

If you want to make a good speech, take your hands out of your pockets, open your mouth wide, and throw yourself into it.

Alice (in the History class): "There were eighteen men with one head."

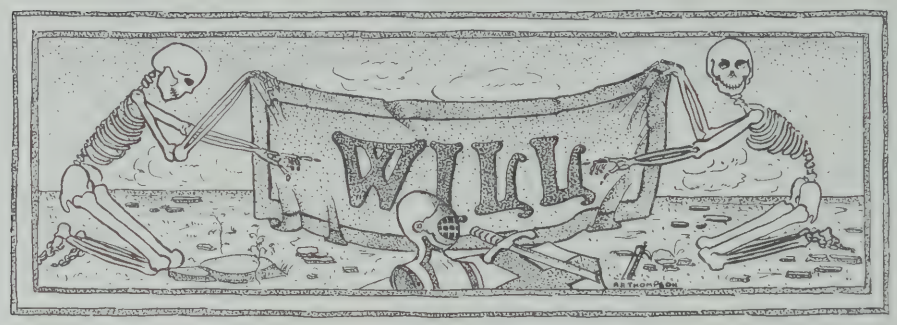
(Heard in the English class) "He dropped the bundle in the mud which he was carrying to his mother."

When baby is through drinking the milk, it should be disconnected and put into boiling water.

Mr. Sullivan: "Why was Cleveland elected president?"
M. Donnelly: "Because Blaine was defeated and Cleveland got the most votes."

Mr. Sullivan: "What is the Tenure of Office Act?"
Foley: " Ten (Tenures) years in office."

Mr. Fougere—The mind should be a garage for ideas, not a parking space for hats.



KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS that we, the Class of 1925 of the Cambridge High and Latin School in the City of Cambridge, County of Middlesex, and State of Massachusetts, being of sound mind, memory and understanding, do hereby confirm and establish this our last will and testament; likewise revoking all former wills drawn up hitherto by us.

We do herewith appoint Mr. Sheehan (Room 38) as executor of this our last will directing him to carry out our last wishes and plans.

First: We give, devise, and bequeath to the Professors of Egyptian Hieroglyphics all famous drawings that we have left on our desks that might remain undeciphered but for their knowledge.

Second: We give, devise, and bequeath to our successors the name of the one book we have given for the last eighteen book reports.

Third: We hereby dedicate a few prayers to be said for those of the remaining classes, particularly the freshmen, who eat in the lunch room to keep that school-girl complexion.

Fourth: We hereby bequeath all our worn out excuses to any ambitious student who may wish to compile a few volumes of the same.

Fifth: We give, devise, and bequeath to the apprehender of truants, our Orpheum season ticket with its unbroken string of Friday Morning attendances.

Sixth: We give, devise, and delegate to the remaining classes our scientific method of masticating in class without moving the jaw to outward appearances, the secret of which is four years of continual practice.

Seven: We give, devise, and bequeath to the explorers of remaining classes all secret passages leading from the school which tend to break the monotony of a study period.

Eighth: We give, devise, and bequeath the name of the strange food which accounts for the odor so similar to that of a Virginia Tobacco Plantation.

Ninth: We give, devise, and bequeath to our successors, our aptness in forgetting the name by which we were duly christened, when stopped for "Talking in the corridors."

Tenth: We give, devise, and bequeath to the freshman class all our midnight oil which remains unburned.

Eleventh: We give, devise, and bequeath to our successors, our battle-scarred football uniforms, the sight of which made our opponents shake with the ague and thus enabled us to score at will.

Twelfth: We give, devise, and bequeath a sum of money to be set aside for the English translation of the classical authors and modern languages the doing of which caused us many a weary hour.

Thirteenth: The remainder of our estate and property, real, personal, and mixed, of what nature and kind so ever we give, devise, and bequeath to our successors the class of 1926.

In witness whereof we hereunto set our hand and seal this eleventh day of June.

Signed

The Class of 1925.

from last year's championship crew, but studies interfered, leaving only Murdock Finlayson and Leo Sullivan as a nucleus of a crew.

The first race of the year was with Pomfret and a green crew from Latin School fought through and won by one length, also setting a new crew record. With this as a starter there ought to be a good crew at Latin School this year.

Latin has always had good crews and always will have, if the sport is well backed up by the student body.

The schedule is as follows:

May 2	Pomfret	At Pomfret, Conn.
May 5	Browne & Nichols	At Charles River
May 14	Harvard Regatta	At Charles River
May 16	St. Marks	At St. Marks
May 23	Harvard Freshmen	At Charles River
May 30	Tabor	At Charles River
June 6	B-I-R-A	At Charles River

The crew that rowed against Pomfret and Browne & Nichols are Sullivan, Coxswain; M. Finlayson, Captain; R. Semple, L. Sieman, R. Parker.

The sun sank into the west, and the dark curtain of night embroidered with twinkling stars enveloped the earth. A warm summer breeze stirred the trees and flowers, and rustled the yellowed leaves of the old blue book, as it lay opened on the old man's lap. His withered fingers had fallen to his side, and no longer clutched the faded covers.

A few minutes later they found him still sitting there, an aweing calm on the motionless face, and a faint smile on the silent lips. He had gone to join those of his school mates that had gone before him to the blessed land of the Hereafter.
